Legend has it that thousands of years ago, an ancient civilization created delicate scrolls imbued with cobalt pigments from the depths of the ocean. These scrolls, filled with graceful and melancholic verses, were considered sacred by the sea-dwelling civilization.

Over time, these cobalt-infused scrolls were lost, drifting away into obscurity—until now.

The Enigmatic Connection with the Sea

Cobalt Poems hold a mystical relationship with the sea, both in their creation and symbolism. The cobalt pigments used to adorn these poems are derived from carefully selected minerals found in the depths of the ocean.

These minerals, formed over geological ages under the pressures of the sea, imbue Cobalt Poems with a captivating vibrancy. Held against the light, the poems shimmer and reflect the same ethereal glow found beneath the ocean's surface.

The Sea

The sea is a hungry dog,
Giant and grey.
He rolls on the beach all day.
With his clashing teeth and shaggy jaws
Hour upon hour he gnaws
The rumbling, tumbling stones,
And 'Bones, bones, bones, bones! '
The giant sea-dog moans,
Licking his greasy paws.

And when the night wind roars
And the moon rocks in the stormy cloud,
He bounds to his feet and snuffs and sniffs,
Shaking his wet sides over the cliffs,
And howls and hollos long and loud.

But on quiet days in May or June,
When even the grasses on the dune
Play no more their reedy tune,
With his head between his paws
He lies on the sandy shores,
So quiet, so quiet, he scarcely snores.
