The Importance of Self-Defense Training

Self-defense training goes beyond physical techniques to defend oneself in dangerous situations. It also focuses on mental preparedness, situational awareness, and building self-confidence. By equipping women with self-defense skills, Mission Her Safety Team 52 aims to instill a sense of empowerment and the ability to react effectively when faced with potential threats.

Through their comprehensive training programs, Mission Her Safety Team 52 teaches women how to identify potential risks, de-escalate conflict situations, and employ physical techniques when necessary. By fostering a supportive learning environment, participants gain self-assurance and feel more capable of protecting themselves and their loved ones.

Advocacy and Community Outreach

Mission Her Safety Team 52 not only focuses on educating women about self-defense but also advocates for changes in policies and societal norms that contribute to the vulnerability of women. They actively engage in community outreach programs, workshops, and seminars to raise awareness and promote women's rights to safety.

The team collaborates with local organizations, schools, and law enforcement agencies to make a more significant impact on women's safety. By forging partnerships and sharing best practices, Mission Her Safety Team 52 ensures a united front against violence and discrimination.

Join the Movement

Empowering women and ensuring their safety is not a task that can be achieved alone. Mission Her Safety Team 52 encourages women from all walks of life to join their movement. By joining, you become part of a supportive community that provides not only practical knowledge but also emotional support and encouragement.

Become a member of Mission Her Safety Team 52 and gain access to various self-defense training programs led by industry professionals. You will learn invaluable skills, develop self-confidence, and make lifelong connections with other like-minded women.

A sexy, grumpy black ops scientist will do anything to track down the mysterious woman who broke into his lab.

After Dr. Ty Sampson catches a mysterious female intruder in his home and lab, he's obsessed with finding out who she is and what she wants. He's a man who trusts very few people and hates anyone in his space. His role as Team 52's lead scientist brings him into contact with a host of powerful, ancient artifacts, so he knows the woman must be after something dangerous and he refuses to let her succeed.

River Elliott-Hall is good at finding things and prides herself on always getting the job done. When a very valuable painting by a master is stolen from a famous museum, it is her job to get it back. The trail leads her to the bright lights of Las Vegas and she's heard rumors of the covert, black ops Team 52. But as she investigates if they know anything about the painting, she finds herself drawn into a battle of wits with a big, bad-tempered, and far-too-handsome genius.

Life has taught River and Ty to guard their hearts, so as these two circle each other, they warily agree to work together. Because it soon becomes clear that the painting is more than just a painting, and someone with a dangerous plan is working behind the scenes. Fighting their intense chemistry, Ty and River—along with Team 52—will risk everything to save the day, and both find themselves battling the unfamiliar needs to claim, protect, and keep each other safe.
