"The First Star on the Left" takes us on an enchanting journey through time and space, blending historical fiction with elements of magical realism and science fiction. Holloway's exquisite prose guides us through the lives of four interconnected characters, offering a profound exploration of love, loss, and the power of storytelling. This beautifully crafted novel challenges our perception of reality and immerses us in a world where boundaries dissolve and dreams come alive.

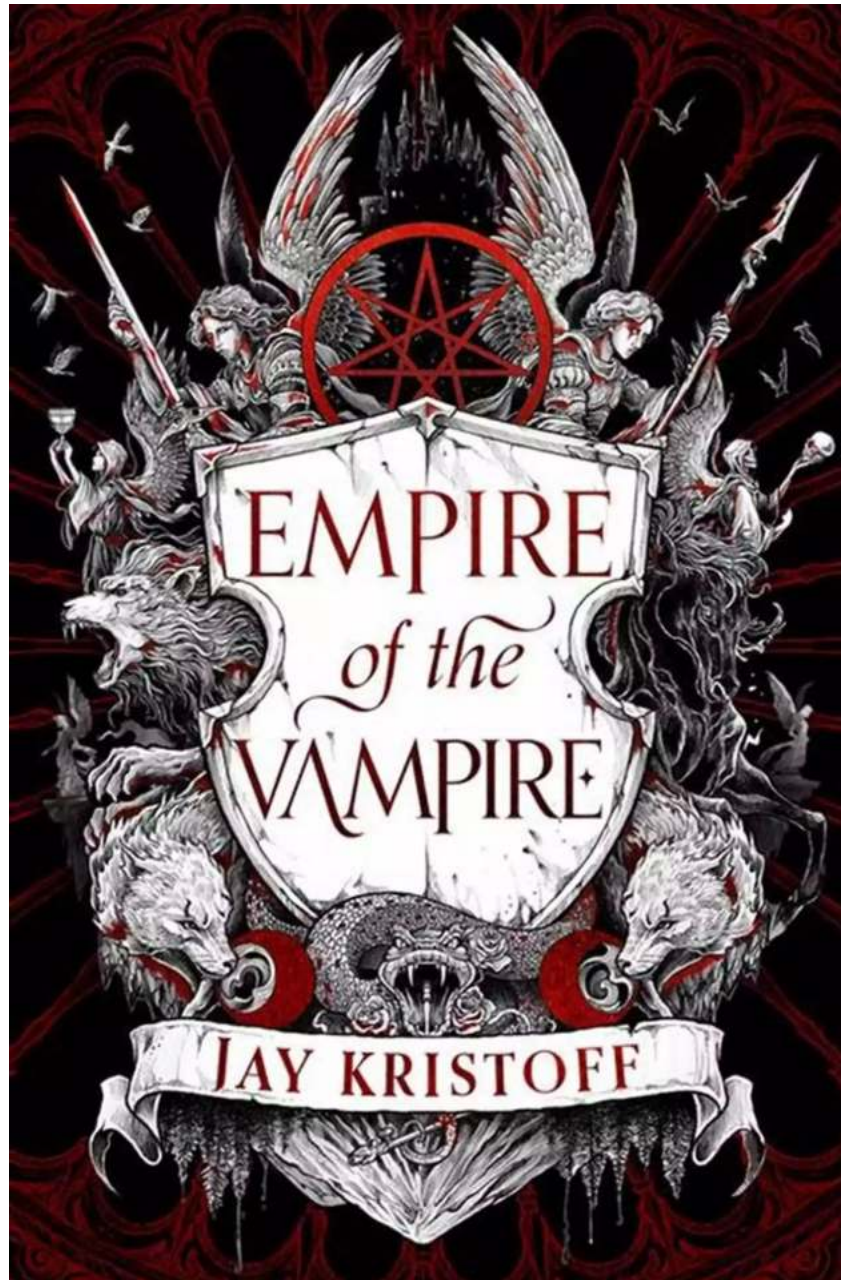

2. "The Memory of Souls" by Jenn Lyons

In "The Memory of Souls," Jenn Lyons transports us to a captivating fantasy realm filled with mythological creatures, ancient prophecies, and a fight for the fate of the world. Lyons weaves together multiple timelines, perspectives, and intricate plotlines to create an epic tale that keeps readers on the edge of their seats. With its rich world-building, complex characters, and masterful storytelling, "The Memory of Souls" has carved a special place in the hearts of fantasy enthusiasts.

3. "Empire of the Vampire" by Jay Kristoff

Jay Kristoff's "Empire of the Vampire" is a dark and compelling vampire saga that reimagines the blood-sucking creatures in a thrilling and introspective narrative. Through the eyes of Gabriel de León, a lone survivor in a world overrun by vampires, the reader embarks on a treacherous quest for revenge and redemption. Kristoff's gritty writing style, combined with his ability to create atmospheric settings, offers a unique twist to the vampire genre, making "Empire of the Vampire" a book impossible to put down.

4. "The Light Ages" by Seb Falk

"The Light Ages" by Seb Falk takes us back in time to medieval England, intertwining historical fiction with elements of magical realism and scientific discoveries. Falk's meticulous research and eloquent prose bring to life the story of a young apprentice, challenging societal norms and seeking answers in the world of science. This captivating novel explores the intersection of magic and science during a pivotal period in history, offering readers a unique blend of genres and a fresh perspective on the human thirst for knowledge.

5. "The Once and Future Witches" by Alix E. Harrow

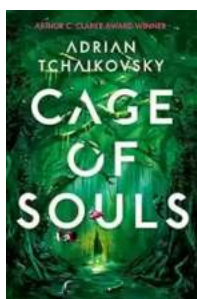

Alix E. Harrow's "The Once and Future Witches" is a spellbinding feminist tale that brings together history, folklore, and witchcraft in a mesmerizing narrative. Set in an alternate New Salem during the suffragette movement, Harrow's novel explores power, sisterhood, and the fight against oppression in a world where magic is real. With its lyrical prose and evocative storytelling, "The Once and Future Witches" casts a powerful spell on readers, igniting their passion for both fantasy and social justice.

The shortlist for the Arthur C. Clarke Award 2020 showcases the immense talent and creativity within the science fiction genre. These five novels embody the spirit of the award, taking readers on extraordinary journeys and challenging their perceptions of the world. Whether you are a long-time fan of science fiction or a curious newcomer, these captivating works are sure to leave you enthralled and inspired.

As the countdown to the award ceremony begins, the excitement builds, and literary enthusiasts eagerly await the announcement of the winner. Regardless of the outcome, it is evident that these shortlisted novels have already made a significant impact on the genre, proving once again that science fiction continues to push the boundaries of imagination and captivate readers' hearts.

Humanity clings to life on a dying Earth in an epic, far-future science fiction novel from an award-winning author.

The sun is bloated, diseased, dying perhaps. Beneath its baneful light, Shadrapar, last of all cities, harbours fewer than 100,000 human souls. Built on the ruins of countless civilisations, Shadrapar is a museum, a midden, an asylum, a prison on a world that is ever more alien to humanity.

Bearing witness to the desperate struggle for existence between life old and new is Stefan Advani: rebel, outlaw, prisoner, survivor. This is his testament, an account of the journey that took him into the blazing desolation of the western deserts; that transported him east down the river and imprisoned him in the verdant hell of the jungle's darkest heart; that led him deep into the labyrinths and caverns of the underworld. He will meet with monsters, madman, mutants.

The question is, which one of them will inherit this Earth?
